

Photo London

'Seeing comes before words'

Whether photography means art, documentation or even Instagram to you, there is no denial that photography is the medium of our time. Right now, right here.

Photo London was created to give London an international photography event befitting the city's status as a global cultural capital. Now in its third edition, the event has established itself as a world-class photography fair and as a catalyst for London's dynamic photography community. From major museums, to auction houses, galleries large and small, right into the burgeoning creative communities in the East End and South London, it harnesses some outstanding creative talent and brings together the world's leading photographers, curators, exhibitors, dealers and the public to celebrate photography.

NILOUFAR BANISADR

Perhaps one of the most narrative pieces from the show is Niloufar Banisadr. Being an Iranian photographer, perhaps it is expected to expect some kind of attitude, controversies and negativity in the works and it certainly does. Yet, it somehow remains a bit of holiness from the pieces, almost feels like a scandal in a medieval catholic church.
